

Just asking...

HOW ARE YOU REALLY FEELING?

... could save someone's life

Ask a friend how they are REALLY FEELING...

Don't just accept 'ok' or 'fine', probe deeper. It may take time for the person to be brave enough to say they're not ok.

And ask them the question more than once.

Let them know its ok to not be ok.

We talk about PHYSICAL health because we can SEE it...

It's ok to talk about MENTAL health even if you CAN'T SEE it.

Everyone has Mental HEALTH...

Sometimes it's good.

Sometimes it's not.

DON'T WORRY IF YOU'RE NOT SURE HOW TO BEGIN...

We've got some questions to help you start the conversation.

FIRST ask...

“ How are you REALLY feeling? OK or FINE ”

Tell me more than OK or FINE ”

“ LOTS of people go through this sort of thing, getting HELP will make it EASIER. ”

“ YOU can TALK to ME and I PROMISE I won't judge you. ”

If they OPEN UP to you then you could say...

Remember to ASK...

- Ask the question... How are you really feeling?
- Signpost... to professional help
- Keeep SAFE... if you're really worried, stay with them and keep them safe until help arrives.

“ I hate to see you STRUGGLING on your own, have you SPOKEN to anyone else? ”

10 Ways To FEEL BETTER

If the person you're talking to says they're not feeling ok, give them this leaflet.

1 Keep in Touch

Friends and family can make you feel included and cared for. They can help you change your state of mind, keep you grounded, and help you deal with practical problems.

2 Keep ACTIVE

Exercise releases feel-good chemicals in your brain, boosts your self-esteem and keeps you healthy.

3 Do Something You ENJOY

Enjoying yourself helps beat stress. If you enjoy something, you're probably good at it too so you'll feel you're achieving something, which will give a boost to your self-esteem.

4 Talk about your feelings...

Talking about your feelings can help you stay in good mental health and deal with times when you feel troubled.

5 TAKE a Break

A rest or a change of scene can help you to feel more positive. Just giving yourself a few minutes to breathe can be enough.

6 Avoid Alcohol

We often drink alcohol to change our mood. Alcohol is actually a depressant and may end up making you feel worse.

7 CARE for others

Caring for others is often an important part of keeping up relationships with people close to you. It can even bring you closer together.

8 EAT Well

There are strong links between what we eat and how we feel. Eating healthy food like fruit and veg can help lift your mood.

9 Accept who you ARE

We're all different and we all deal with things in our own way. There's no right or wrong - just do whatever works for you.

10 ASK for HELP

You don't have to be a superhero!

We all get tired or overwhelmed at times. If things are getting too much for you and you feel you can't cope, ask for help.
